MONTHLY E-NEWSLETTER

January, 2023

WELCOME BACK!

After their short holiday, students, known as “The LivingStones”, reported back to campus in early January; all looking forward to having a great semester. The semester started with an address from the university President, coupled with a thanksgiving activity. Chapel services and mentoring sessions are now back in action as student life is nurtured to best suit the culture of the LIU family. Students began attending their new studies given by their able professors. A lot is anticipated to happen in this semester including guild elections, a cultural gala, the spiritual emphasis week and many more exciting activities. Seniors are in their final stages as they look forward to winding up their time at LIU, equipped with skills and getting ready to exit the gates with their heads held high. They are looking forward to joining the workforce and transforming their communities by carrying out the mission and vision of LIU! They are surely on course towards building the Nations of Africa through quality, Christ-centered higher Education!

DISCIPLESHIP @LIU

Part 1: Discipleship, is the key to unlocking the Kingdom of God. We all know the mandate in Matthew 28 and have probably heard it from the pulpit many times, “Go forth, and make disciples!” What is discipleship, though? The word, perhaps, has lost its meaning to us. Is it teaching, Bible study, or is it preaching? Is it a street kids ministry in the slums of Nairobi, Kenya? Yes, to all of it, for sure, but it goes deeper, because it is all about the heart or “the why” we are doing what we do. You may believe I am talking about the heart of the person hearing and benefiting from our ‘good’ work. I am not, because it is not the hearer that benefits the most, or is blessed, it is in fact the one who speaks, the one who goes, as long as his ‘mission’ is to know Christ more and more, just as Paul said in Philippians 4. The truth is, it is while discipling that I find myself being disciplined. Why disciple, then? We disciple in order to grow deeper ourselves as disciples. This, in its entirety is discipleship.

At Livingstone International University, the heart of our mission is to be disciples that make other disciples. As a university both staff and students seek to know Christ and to share that love, with each other. Then, whatever profession the students have been trained in, after graduation the passion to know Christ will draw others to know Him. (Part 2 in February)

PRESIDENT'S NEWS

LIU started as a dream before 2006. From 2006 to date, the dream has become a certain reality. From less than forty students in 2012, the university has grown to hundreds.

In twelve years, LIU has moved from 3 schools to 6 and has been offering more than 17 different academic programs. It is the desire of LIU leadership to continue developing more programs that will enable students to become more spiritually oriented and able to transform acquired knowledge into practical projects for individual and community development.

My hope for 2023 is to see the Government of Uganda grant LIU its permanent charter. This will have a great impact on recruitment of new students and staffing. The charter will also increase trustworthiness in the mission and vision of LIU. Even more important, though, is my desire for all students to come to know and follow Jesus Christ as disciples that make other disciples.

Personally, as the President, I pray for more blessings for parents, guardians and organizations that support LIU both spiritually and financially. All this for the glory of God and God alone!
